EPI 583 Winter 2008 Seminar Series
Presents special guest Katherine Flegal, PhD

“Courting Controversy: Perspectives on communicating about science to the public”

Monday February 2, 2009
Health Sciences Building, Hogness Auditorium
3:30—5:30pm

This panel discussion will highlight public health and media perspectives on the pitfalls and opportunities of communicating results from scientific studies to the public.

Panelists: Katherine Flegal PhD, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention
Laura Koutsky PhD, MSPH, UW Epidemiology
Bruce Psaty MD, PhD, UW Medicine and Epidemiology
Jeff Duchin MD, Public Health - Seattle & King County
Tom Paulson, Seattle Post-Intelligencer

With introductory remarks by Noel Weiss, MD, DrPH, addressing: “What Scientists Can Do to Minimize Misinterpretation or Overinterpretation of Study Results.”

For more information please contact
Courtney Marshall,
epiadmin@u.washington.edu
(206) 543-1165